MINERS TRAPPED 1500 FEET UNDER GROUND

ELECTION A REPUDIATION

Majority Given to Parties of Left Brought About Poincaré's Decision to Resign

June 4 Earliest Constitutional Date Government Could Have Chosen to Quit

PARIS, May 13. (By the Associated Press.) Premier Poincaré and his recently reorganized ministry will step from power June 4.

The premier interpreted the majority given to the parties of the left in Sunday's parliamentary elections as a repudiation of his government and forthwith decided to resign.

He was raffed at a council of ministers held this morning in the palace of the Elisee under the chairmanship of President Millerand.

The new chamber of deputies will meet on June 2, elect its president, officials and secretaries, and then adjourn until the fourth when the new president will deliver the opening address. The first official business transaction will be when Mr. Poincaré reads his declaration of resignation.

June 4 was the earliest constitutional date the government could have chosen to resign.

It had been a foregone conclusion since the definite results of the election became known, that the cabinet would resign, but what the time and circumstances of the resignation would be remained undetermined until this morning's meeting.

The cabinet deliberated an hour and a half on the question whether it would be possible to resign immediately. It was finally decided it would be impossible and, according to precedent, to open a ministerial crisis before the new chamber had even assembled and before the various groups had organized and positions had been taken with reference to a governmental combination.

The ministers all agreed, however, that they could in the meantime only undertake to care for current business in their departments, leaving all problems involving questions of policy for their successors.

Today's action of the cabinet is regarded as making the meeting which was to occur between Poincaré, Millerand and Macdonald on May 14 impossible.

The leaders of the majority which will make up the eventual government line in the chamber are understood all to favor the application of the law of emergency plan, but as there is more than the mere details of the execution of this plan to be discussed between the French and British premier, Premier Poincaré considered there was no longer the necessary authority in his hands to conduct the negotiations.

Discussion in radical and socialist circles as to the formation of the new government indicates that the leaders of the coalition bloc of the left will insist upon the socialists receiving their full share of the honors. An effort to move from a coalition to a socialist as president of the chamber. This project, it is pointed out to the opening of the chamber's sessions, seems likely to bring on the first clash between the new majority and opposition.

In view of the small margin the radicals and socialist socialists will be able to work without the help of the more moderate elements, some doubt is entertained as to whether a socialist could be elected to this post, even if the radicals were willing to support him.

Former Premier Briand remains the most likely probability for the presidency.

ELABORATE PLANS FOR BOYS' WEEK OBSERVANCE HERE

Novel Features Listed on Pretentious Programs—Boys' Days in the Schools and at Church—Athletics and Big Parade on Saturday—Other Events

All Lowell is preparing to celebrate Boys' Week.

It is to be the biggest and best public demonstration of the sterling qualities and shining virtues of vigorous American boyhood ever conducted in Lowell or the state at large. In many respects, the coming 3-day celebration in honor of the municipality's red-blooded, all-American, made citizens of the future, will prove a record-breaker.

Backed by a host of leading citizens of Lowell, including the mayor and many city officials, industrial leaders of world fame, noted religious instructors and expert school superintendents, the coming event in honor of the boys of Lowell, of all nationalities, from every walk of busy life, promises to eclipse anything ever before presented for the edification of Lowell citizens in toto.

PLAN TO TAKE LOWELL JAIL OUT OF "WHITE ELEPHANT" CLASS

Rep. Corbett to Confer With County Commissioner Barlow Relative to Occupancy of Building—Good Home for Branch Office of Motor Vehicle Registry

Representative Thomas J. Corbett today said he plans to confer with county Commissioner Eason K. Barlow relative to a plan which may take the Lowell county jail from the "white elephant" class and make it at least temporarily self-sustaining if not a revenue-earning establishment.

Mr. Corbett suggested to Mr. Barlow that the county commissioners get in touch with Commissioner of Public Works William F. Williams at the state house relative to renting a part of the jail as a branch office of the motor vehicle registry. The branch office would be located in the old Algonquin building here lost its home in the disastrous fire of a few Sunday ago and is at present temporarily located in city hall.

"Undoubtedly it is the desire of Mr. Goodwin, the registrar, to secure new quarters," said Mr. Corbett this morning.

MILL GIRLS ARE ALL VERSATILE

So Says Cornelius F. Cronin
Who Has Every Reason to
Know Whereof He Speaks
Many Affected by Curtail-
ments Competent to Do
Office Work He Finds

The widespread unemployment situation today affecting Lowell prosperity in many homes where men and women have been removed temporarily from payrolls of local textile industrial establishments, has caused the tabulated rolls of unemployed Lowell feminine applicants for work to increase very largely. Supt. Cornelius F. Cronin of the city employment bureau, stated to The Sun, this morning.

The latest anxious applicants, swelling the already large number of women and girls earnestly seeking employment of some kind suitable with which to obtain fair living wages, appear to be well trained in their various callings. All applicant records investigated are excellent in past performances.

Not all of the new feminine applicants for "employment of any kind" are former mill workers, Mr. Cronin stated. The majority have had excellent and well-attested experience in lines of desirable public service, such as bookkeeping, typewriting, stenography, work in supervisory capacities, experimental handling of works and office tasks of similar category. The majority are well educated and products of Lowell schools.

Many Prefer Housework
Applicants are found on the books, also, who are anxious to perform housework—excellent women of character and high recommendations. Some of them teaching, the end of home resources financially, and compelled to seek employment in the open field in order to support families, relatives or sick ones. Some of the tales told by feminine visitors, whose names are well known to Supt. Cronin, and attested as Lowell residents of long standing, are almost unbelievable, the official said.

The dearth of situations open to applicants now crowding the lists at the city employment bureau, at city hall, is one containing sorry features, covering almost unbelievable situations affecting the situation in Lowell today. The placing of well-recommended applicants, male and female, for positions of any kind, is one of the most difficult problems facing Supt. Cronin today. He believes that the situation would be relieved appreciably if an advertising campaign could be conducted through newspaper channels, and supported by municipal funds.

In the meantime, the superintendent, with a long list of waiting men and women hoping in vain for something to turn up that they may earn a few dollars to tide them over until they get regular employment, is anticipating that something will yet be done to properly place the requirements of the applicants appealing to him in their dire necessity, before the public. It should be done in such a way that will attract attention and obtain desired results in relieving at least some of the most appalling unemployment cases that are now menacing the very serious attention of the Cronin employment bureau and are pathetic in the extreme.

PROM BY SENIOR CLASS OF HIGH SCHOOL

The annual prom by the senior class of the high school will be held Friday evening, May 16, in O'Connell Hall. This affair is the most important social event by the senior class prior to graduation and is always very successful.

The committee in charge of the prom, headed by Stewart Jackson, has been at work for over a month in making arrangements for the affair, and announces now that everything is in readiness. O'Connell Hall has been decorated throughout with ribbons and streamers, the class colors, maroon and gold, being conspicuously placed throughout the hall. One of the four orchestras in the city has been engaged for the event and many novelties will be put on by the contributors. Tickets have sold rapidly and it is expected that the attendance will be far greater than at any previous senior affair.

hardly worth the trouble taken to let the figures down in the official record sheets.

Locks & Canals proprietors report the total depth of rainfall covering the past five days in Lowell, only 1.39 inches. The heaviest rainfall of the five-day period came from 8 a. m. yesterday to 5 a. m. today—exactly 1.07 inches.

Atmospheric conditions in Lowell rivalled the City of Fog across the Atlantic. Spectacular masses of railroad locomotive smoke in the vicinity of the Middlesex street station frequently swamped in great dirty-white mists for many hundreds of yards up and down Middlesex, Thorndike, Chalmers and Westford streets in the station neighborhood, blocking traffic on streets and sidewalks repeatedly and often halting traffic entirely, particularly during the crowded hours of noon and early evening yesterday.

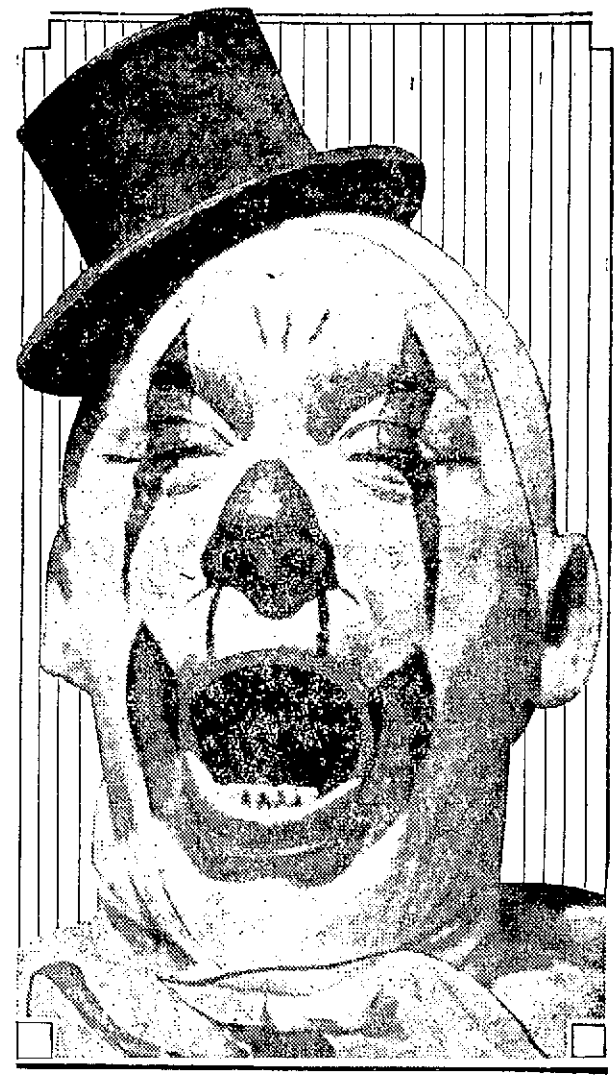

The weather man after making his forecast of unsettled weather for today and hitting it right up to 14 a. m., at least, has given us some historical tidbits that we freely pass along to inquisitive Sun readers.

On July 3, 1916, 1.61 inches of rain fell in two hours, more than the Locks and Canals' official total of this man's five-day storm in Lowell. Weather sharps scouting back as far as Oct. 3, 1916, when it started to rain and rained every day up to and including Oct. 15, discover that the measurements were far greater. Weather records during the past four days have been the coldest officially recorded since 1903. The heavy down-pour yesterday slowed up business activities in general. Schools were closed in the afternoon, but though it rained smartly this morning about "no-school" whistle-blowing time, there was no necessity of ordering another vacation period, for the wind was changing and the clouds breaking in the west. The sunshine today made Nature

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT HANGS HIMSELF

NEWARK, N. J., May 13.—Louis Siegel, 14, high school student, hanged himself today in a garage at the rear of his home, according to County Physician Warren, who gave a verdict of suicide. The boy's body was found by his mother. The youth's parents said they believed their son's timidity, the result of an injury to his head in an automobile accident in 1922, led the boy to end his life. He had been missing since last evening.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 13.—Street car traffic here, paralyzed by a three-day strike of motormen and conductors was resumed on normal schedule today. Motormen perked up and smiled once straw hat windows bloomed brightly once again. Traffic officers doffed the rainy gear again. And 18 more trusting citizens wrote to the street department about the fearful condition of Chalmers street from South street as far as the well known hospital.

SAYS PROHIBITION SIGN OF UPWARD TREND

That prohibition is a positive sign of an upward trend in the nation's morality, is the belief of Rev. Barton Lockhard, D.D., of Manchester, N. H., who delivered an illuminating address on "The Moral Drift of Our Age" before the members of the Baptist Social Union, at First Baptist church last evening. The speaker is pastor emeritus of the Manchester First Congregational church.

His address was filled with interest because of the novel views expressed and the method of comparison employed in "sizing up" the United States of today as compared with the times ago, when alcoholic liquors were openly dispensed to all comers over public bars. Dr. Lockhard discounted the remarks of Dr. Butler of Columbia university, who has stated that eleven republican states of the Union would have to adopt a wet plank in the coming campaign to remain solid for the party. The Manchester clergyman declared that remarks like that sounded like "opera bouffe."

New Hampshire and Pennsylvania were named as two important states that have discovered that "prohibition" had worked out well. The clergyman said the "moral trend of the country" was upward. The four signs which Dr. Lockhard considered were most encouraging were the freedom of the sexes in all civilized countries; the 18th amendment; the growing ideal for world peace and the political emancipation of women.

The speaker declared that the people of the country at large "were tired of the political machinations and influence of the open saloon, as well as its secular vices, and do not want it back again."

Previous to the address, dinner was served by women of the church and President Harold F. Howe presided at a brief business meeting of the union. The next meeting of the social organization will take place next September. George R. Myers, Lorring Trail and Rev. W. Judson Setzer comprise a nominating committee which will report at that time.

this paper a week ago, and it granted will mark a radical change in the matter of transportation.

The street railway company has long cast eager eyes on the thousands of local persons who commute daily to Boston via the Boston & Maine railroad and it is believed the underlying purpose of the express bus line is to get this business for the street railway company.

Applications for permits have already been filed in Boston, Lowell and the several other cities and towns through which the buses will operate. The route chosen by the railway company is out Gosham street to Hilyer, to Burlington, over the new road formerly known as the "Snake road" to Winchester, from there to Arlington and Cambridge to a terminal in Charles street, Boston, opposite the Boston common.

The service which these busses would render would be hourly, it is believed at the present time, and the trip between the two cities would take an hour. It is believed by those familiar with street railway matters that the proposed line from this city to Boston is an experiment and, if successful, will mark the beginning of similar lines in many cities within a radius of 20 miles of Boston.

FR. DEVLIN ADDRESSES EPISCOPAL CLERGYMEN

WALTHAM, May 12.—An extraordinary scene was that in the vestry of Christ's Episcopal church, Rev. Francis E. Webster, rector, at noon yesterday when an audience of Episcopal clergymen, all members of the Massachusetts Clerical association, listened to an address by Very Rev. William Devlin, S.J., head of Boston college, on "Preparation for the Priesthood in the Jesuit Order."

The invitation to address the association was extended by its president, Rev. Thomas H. Campbell, rector of St. John's church, Jamaica Plain, and more than 50 clergymen responded. Rev. Henry E. Lennon, pastor of St. Patrick's church, Milford, N. H., whose interest in religious life and in a high school, came down, and upon hearing of this Rev. W. D. Armitage, rector of the Church of Our Savior, a warm friend of Fr. Lennon, also came to Waltham to hear the address.

Fr. Devlin spoke for an hour and at the end of his exhortation submitted a series of questions by his auditors. After the discussion the party adjourned for lunch.

"I am very glad to introduce Rev. William Devlin," said Rev. Mr. Campbell. "Among the men who have addressed the club have been men prominent in religious life and in a high school, came down, and upon hearing of this Rev. W. D. Armitage, rector of the Church of Our Savior, a warm friend of Fr. Lennon, also came to Waltham to hear the address."

Study Courses Outlined

After thanking Mr. Campbell and the society for its invitation, Fr. Devlin took up the very long course which the young Jesuit has to follow. "There were in 1923," he said, "15,494 young men under instruction, about 9,000 priests and 6,000 scholars. We call the young men until their day of ordination scholars."

"We have 1100 lay brothers. They do not aspire to the priesthood. At present we never receive anyone into the ranks of the lay brothers who has any desire of going further in studies towards the priesthood."

We used to take boys from colleges and high schools and sometimes with very meagre preparation of learning and train them ourselves. Some of these have become noted. Fr. McKelroy, who preached in the church of the Immaculate Conception, entered the order as a lay brother and became a valuable man in the priesthood and in the service of the society in this part of the country.

"The general of the society lives in Rome and sometimes is called the black pope, in contrast to the pope, the red pope," Fr. Devlin explained. "I don't think the black pope has any great influence over the white pope. That, however, is merely a color."

loquial expression. The general is elected for life and selects his assistants from the men who have been given prominence in the order. We have them in California, Missouri, New Orleans and the Maryland-New York province, to which I belong. We were established many years ago in the Calvert settlement.

"The Maryland-New York province was the cradle of the society. We received into the society of this Boston province about 80 young men every summer and it is the training of these young men that we have to attend to here."

The speaker said that besides the work of the churches the society had the services of the house writers with their magazines like the Sacred Heart Review, and they conduct a printing establishment at Fordham. The speaker said a young man must gain permission if he is to leave the province, "I obtain the names of about 30 boys in Boston who mostly come from the colleges. I presume from high school; we do not receive about half a dozen boys after they have spent their year from Boston college and from all the other schools in the province."

Next Fr. Devlin passed to consider the vows: Poverty, chastity and obedience to which each Jesuit is bound. After years of regency he may be sent to the Philippines or to China and he may return to Woodstock, Md. Next he prepares the mass, looking forward to the day of ordination, the first day that fills his mother's heart with joy.

"At Blackwell's Island, New York," Fr. Devlin said, "I was given charge of 500 consumptives. We arose at 1:30 every morning and three times a day we went the rounds to see the sick," and thus Fr. Devlin outlined again and again the strenuous lives of these men who give themselves up for the betterment of mankind.

FORESTERS OF AMERICA

The semi-monthly meeting of Court Middlesex-Dimon, Foresters of America, was held last evening in Odd Fellows building. Brothers J. J. Shea, Thomas F. Brady and Charles Higgins were named to represent the court in conjunction with other organizations in regard to the observance of Flag day June 14, by the Boy Scouts of America. Several committee reports were made and an interesting talk on the order given by former Secretary Thomas F. Quinn.

INGROWN TOE NAIL TURNS OUT ITSELF

A few drops of "Outgrow" upon the skin surrounding the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and softens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

"Outgrow" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.—Adv.

LOCAL FAMILY BADLY IN NEED OF ASSISTANCE

The Lowell Social Service league has called attention to an urgent case of dire distress and need involving a Lowell family of nine, whose supporting head is ill and unable to provide for his flock. Miss Aline M. Bell, secretary of the league, describes the case as most unusual and calls for prompt aid.

At the present time, the husband and father is at a local hospital and will be unable to work for the next six weeks. His family has never before asked for assistance. During previous hardships, parents and children have shown a remarkable spirit of co-operation and optimism, which has made it possible for the family to "get along somehow."

The Social Service leaguers are appealing to Lowell charity-minded, hoping that someone will be able to render temporary relief in this deplorable instance. Any person desiring to assist may communicate with the office of the league in the Fairbairn building.

SAFE FOR BABY

A Lewiston Mother Recommends
Baby's Own Tablets

Mothers themselves are the best judges of the value of medicines that promote the health of little children. Strong evidence of the worth of Baby's Own Tablets is the fact that every mother who once uses them is an enthusiastic advocate of their merits ever afterward.

"I have found Baby's Own Tablets to be a gentle laxative and a safe remedy for children," says Mrs. LeRoy S. Green, of No. 1884 Blake street, Lewiston, Me. "They are pleasant to take and the children like them. They cost them like candy. As a housewife, I do not think the tablets can be equalled. I will always recommend Baby's Own Tablets to my friends who have children."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by all druggists or will be mailed on receipt of price, twenty-five cents per box, by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. With every package is wrapped a booklet, "The Care of the Baby in Health and Sickness."—Adv.

Hair Often Ruined By Careless Washing

Soap should be used very carefully. If you want to keep your hair looking its best, many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Multifid coconut oil shampoo, which is pure and greaseless, and is better than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonfuls is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and easy to manage.

You can get Multifid coconut oil shampoo at any drug store; it is inexpensive, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.—Adv.

VITAL ERROR IN TRAFFIC REPORT

Copy Sent to Gov. Cox Had
Clause Not Approved by
Public Safety Committee

Variation Threatened Goodwin's Job—How it Got in a Mystery

BOSTON, May 13.—Members of the Massachusetts public safety committee, whose recommendations of making Massachusetts roads safe were sent to the legislature yesterday by the governor, got quite a shock last evening when they discovered that published copies of their report did not correspond with the report they signed.

The variation was not great—it consisted merely of the insertion of an insignificant little clause—but if that little clause were enacted into law it might have a powerful effect on the motor-vehicle situation.

It might have the way for the ousting of Registrar Frank A. Goodwin, whose stormy career and ruthless campaigning have created a large circle who would like to see the last of him.

At present the appointment and removal of the registrar of motor vehicles is in the hands of the commissioner of public works. The clause which somehow found its way into the report submitted to Gov. Cox would change that and place his appointment directly in the hands of the governor. Incidentally, it would probably mean that Mr. Goodwin's present appointment would automatically expire when the new legislation took effect, unless he were again appointed by the governor.

The Extra Clause

In the copy submitted to Gov. Cox the paragraph relative to the appointment of a motor traffic board reads in part: "The board to consist of the commissioner of public works or an assistant commissioner of the highway department appointed by the commissioner of public safety, the registrar of motor vehicles, who should hereafter be appointed by the governor."

The last clause is the punch line, and that this report received

It does not appear in the carbon copies held by members of the committee, and should not have appeared in the report submitted to the governor.

Gen. John H. Sherburne, chairman of the public safety committee, who submitted the final report to the governor, said last night that it was a surprise to him to see the clause in question published. He said he did not know how it got in, but did not believe it was inserted in the governor's office.

"As far as I know anything about it," he said, "it is a typographical error. We were in a hurry to get out the report and we did not have an opportunity to check it up. Those sheets went in without checking. I am very much surprised, because the report should have been submitted as signed."

The clause in question did appear in one of the rough drafts of the report, but the committee later cut it out.

The Governor's Message

Some surprise was expressed that Gov. Cox made no comment on this clause of the report when urging the immediate passage of legislation recommended by the committee. The governor's message to the legislature, made public at the same time as the report.

The message said: "It is earnestly immediate and serious consideration, and that the recommended legislation be enacted at this session. There can be no duty which transcends in importance the safeguarding of the lives and limbs of our citizens."

The message and report were referred to the legislative committee on highways and motor vehicles. This committee will consider them and set a date for a public hearing.

The committee which drew up the report is made up of Gen. Sherburne, Thomas F. Sullivan, James T. Sullivan, Courtney Crocker and Lewis E. MacBrayne.

The recommendations of the committee were incorporated in four bills submitted with the report as follows:

1. To increase the penalty for operating after suspension or revocation of license.
2. To authorize courts to suspend licenses.
3. To make the function of judges and the registrar of motor vehicles more definite.

4. To constitute the motor traffic board for the purpose of hearing appeals from the decision of the registrar of motor vehicles. Appeals are at present heard by the state department of public works.

France Dances The Huppa-Huppa and America Adopts New Steps

RENE DE BUxEUIL, BLIND COMPOSER OF THE HUPPA-HUPPA.

BY MILTON BRONNER,
N.E.A. Service Writer

PARIS, May 7.—Paris has got the Huppa-Huppa!

It is spreading over France. The whole continent is threatened with it. Huppa-Huppa isn't a whooping cough. It's a dance.

It has made such a hit that I have come here especially to see it, hear its tantalizing music, study the steps and introduce it to America. By special arrangement with the composers and publishers of the Huppa-Huppa, The Sun is first to acquaint its readers with the music and the dance.

It all began when Juan Hens visited his friend, René de Buxeuil, in his Montmartre flat.

Blind Composer

Buxeuil is one of the unique characters in Paris. As a boy he was wounded when hunting and came home totally blind. He attended one of the famous French schools for the education of blind boys, devoted himself especially to music, settled in a Paris attic and began a long and successful career of song writing.

He is a popular attraction at music halls where he sits at a piano, plays his own music and sings his own songs.

Somewhere Hens, who writes words for songs, had picked up a few bars of a haunting air. He was told it came from a little semi-tropical island off the coast of Chile.

"I have one grand idea for a song," said Hens to his friend. "The refrain will tell how all day long the natives dance under the banana trees."

And he hummed what he remembered.

His 2000th Composition

Almost on the instant Buxeuil sat down at the piano, embroidered the theme, played it over again, developed it a little more and, turning his slightest eyes to Hens, said:

"So a new Montmartre chanson was born. It marks number 2000 in the compositions of the blind musician who so often has set Paris humming."

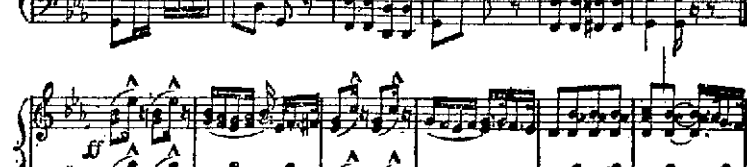

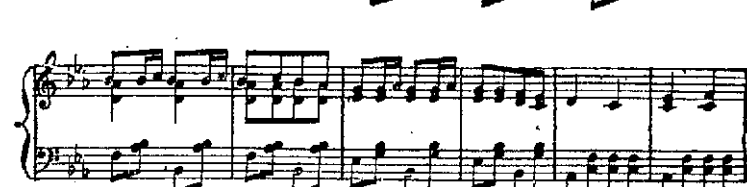

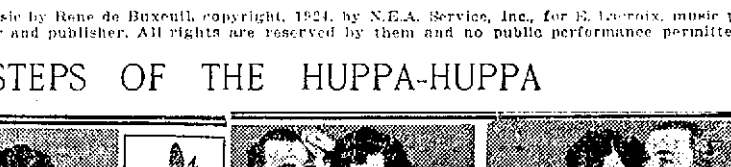

Lacien Piau, dancing master, took the music and worked out the dance.

Tomorrow, The Sun will publish the music of the Huppa-Huppa. And the next day, the dance itself.

PLAN EXHIBIT TO SHOW WORK OF BLIND

Lowell citizens interested in service work among blind men and women of the city at large and constantly at work providing relief of some kind as well as substantial relief in a monetary way, are discussing the subject of holding another public exhibition of products of the workshop for the blind. If the project takes form a little later on, the familiar institution located for many years at No. 125 Moody street, this city, would have a prominent participation in the program arranged.

Some time ago, Miss Rose Trainer, blind worker in the cause of the afflicted kind in many sections of New England, came to Lowell and arranged a most revealing and surprising exhibit of articles of many descriptions designed and manufactured by men and women of the world of eternal darkness. It was an exhibition that attracted attention far and wide and resulted in increased activities in the work of aiding the blind in many different quarters of New England, particularly in Massachusetts.

Manager Henry Burke, able superintendent of the Workshop for the Blind, had no authoritative information today relative to the holding of another comprehensive public exhibit of products of the blind workers in this city, but stated that he would be ready to perform his part in such an exhibition, as was the case when Miss Trainer came to Lowell and arranged a most interesting presentation of the various arts and crafts in which field sightless men and women excel.

It is understood that if the exhibition is promoted that it will have much larger support in Lowell and vicinity than the previous effort and that it will be more interesting in display features that would include all of the notable examples of the manufactures turned out at the Moody street workshop for the blind.

Manager Burke said today that his co-operation is ready at any time if the plan reported is adopted.

This is the busiest industrial season of the year at the quiet workshop not far from city hall, where export articles of the sightless world labor, sent in from many quarters and from many private homes.

The Lowell Workshop for the Blind finds the broom industry slackening up owing to small and less frequent orders, with the exception of the products in the "mill broom" class. Several Lowell textile mill agents regularly send in orders for new brooms of this special make, which are found for general mill-floor cleaning purposes to excel any other broom made. Work on "specials" for the mills is always welcome and numerous thoughtful textile superintendents and overseers always remember the Moody workshop for the blind when making up their monthly stockroom account requirements.

Great preparations are being made by active working committees, even with large and comprehensive memberships, to make this fifth anniversary a record-breaking affair in every detail. Invitations as well as hundreds of bell tickets have been called for in many sections of New England, where representatives of the Greek-speaking race and numerous racial fraternalities, religious and social, reside and always have a warm feeling in their hearts for Lowell brothers and sisters of the Helladic blood.

Today tickets were forwarded to friends of the Lowell Greek Orthodox community ordered them in convenient numbers in Manchester, Nashua, Boston, Lawrence, Haverhill, Plymouth and Cambridge. Boston community will send a large delegation to the ball, the members having heard of the wonders of Lowell's new Memorial Auditorium and eagerly anticipating their first visit to the edifice.

The fifth annual program offers a concert from 7.45 to 8.30 p. m., and dancing from 8.30 to 1 a. m. The concert brings a variety of excellent offerings in finest musical selections and special song numbers. Starring on the concert program will be Mrs. Nora Regan Longtin, always a favorite in offerings sponsored by social and fraternal organizations of the Greek community presentation. Souvenir programs, elaborate and costly, are to be distributed to all-comers at the annual community festival and ball, Friday evening. Many prominent citizens of Lowell, including Mayor John J. Donovan, are on the special invitation lists.

U. S. Army Flyers Encircling Globe

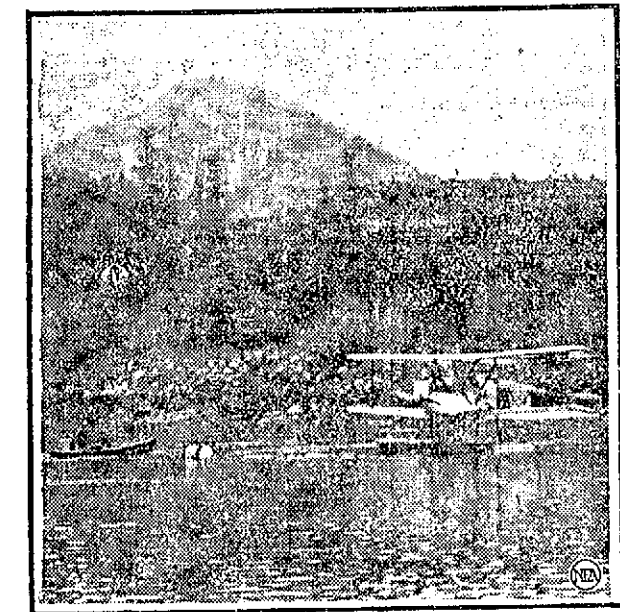

THROUGH BLINDING SNOW AND FOG!

Here is Lieutenant Erik Nelson, engineering officer of the 'round-the-world flight, hopping off Sitka, Alaska. The trip from Sitka to Seward, Alaska, was made through blinding snow storms and dense fog. Near Icy Bay, 300 miles northwest of Sitka, the squadron had to drop to an altitude of only ten feet.

AIR CHART

THAT RUGGED COAST

Some idea of rugged Alaskan coast can be gained from this picture. A rowboat is seen rowing out gas for Lieutenant Lowell Smith's ship, The Chicago.

Plan to Take Lowell Jail Out Of White Elephant Class

ing. "The city hall quarters, it is fair to assume, are not satisfactory. This is borne out by the fact that the inspectors used the hall before they ever had an office here and appeared to be glad to leave when the time came. There is no spare space at city hall that could not be well utilized for strictly municipal purposes."

Aimed Traffic Relief

"There is traffic congestion daily at city hall," he continued, "due to the large number of applicants for licenses who gather there to demonstrate their fitness. Moody street is lined with cars and some days merchants along there cannot get within a block of their places of business due to this condition. The congestion about city hall has increased to such an extent that persons having business there have often found it necessary to park their cars a block and two blocks away from the building. "There is another element that should also be taken into consideration. The majority of persons driving cars about the hall at certain hours daily are 'green' or inexperienced operators, many nervous to a degree because of their anxiety to qualify for a license. This increases

MAJ. MARTIN TO AGAIN ASSUME COMMAND

CORDOVA, Alaska, May 12. (By the Associated Press.)—With calm weather forecast for today at Attu Island, where three United States army cruisers have been since Thursday after flying from Attu Island, it was expected that the aviators would hasten preparations for the next jump tomorrow of their world-encircling flight, a 872-mile trip to Paramashiro Island, in the Kurile group, Japan.

Meanwhile Major Frederick L. Martin, commander of the expedition, and his mechanic, Staff Sergeant Alva L. Harvay, who crashed into a mountain 100 miles northwest of Chignik, April 30 and who reached Port Moller on the Berlin coast, May 2, were to leave today aboard either the United States coast guard cutter Absecon or the Pacific-American Fisheries vessel Catherine L., en route to Seattle and Washington, D. C.

From the latter place the men are expected to proceed for India, where Major Martin will again assume charge of the squadron.

COMMUNICATIONS

Editor of The Lowell Sun,
Lowell, Mass.

Dear Sir:

In the Saturday evening issue of The Lowell Sun (May 10, 1924) under the heading of "U. S. Clerks Ask for Pay Raise," I desire to say that the information given by General Chairman Ulrich of the clerks' organization was apparently incorrect in his statement with respect to station employees, baggage men, freight handlers and common laborers on the Boston & Maine system, and I would like at this time to take exceptions to same.

In connection with the above named classes of employees, the brotherhood of railroad station employees has in effect at the present time, with the management of the Boston & Maine railroad, an agreement governing the working conditions of said classes of employees.

The executive officers of the brotherhood of railroad station employees representing Boston & Maine system met the management of said system for the purpose of discussing our request for the restoration of rates of wages paid to the above named employees, effective May 1, 1920, or in other words a request for the return of the peak rates of 1920.

Inasmuch as the management could not see its way clear to grant said request, this matter was submitted to the United States railroad labor board for its consideration and decision and the case has been assigned Docket No. 3383. Hearings in connection with same are expected to take place before the labor board in Chicago in the very near future.

Mr. H. D. Ulrich is only representative for clerical forces on the Boston & Maine system, so it is evident some error has been made in this statement appearing in Saturday evening's issue of The Sun.

Very truly yours,
EDMOND MCNAMARA,
Grand President.

Lawrence Police Officers To Be Arraigned Here

for attempting to serve and execute a certain search warrant lawfully issued by U. S. Commissioner Richard B. Walsh.

3. Obstructing, resisting and opposing said federal officers while they were engaged in serving or attempting to serve said search warrant.

The story told by Federal Officer Walter H. Sullivan is that on May 10, after securing a search warrant for the premises, 70 South Broadway, Lawrence, with Officers Sweeney and Trembley he went to that location and after ordering out all persons found inside, locked the doors and began to conduct a search. After about half an hour, a knock was heard on the front door and upon opening it, the three Lawrence officers specified were seen there. Officer Norton said he had a state search warrant for the premises and asked to be allowed to execute it. The Lawrence policemen were admitted and each group of officers conducted a search.

In the meantime, the federal officers had placed the altered proprietor, Patrick J. Ryan, under arrest. After a trip to the cellar the Lawrence officers reappeared and Norton said he was going to arrest Ryan and take him to the Lawrence police station. Sullivan told him Ryan already had been arrested by the federal officers. Sullivan then alleges that Norton told him that did not make any difference and although he warned him, Norton took Ryan away with him.

Officer Sullivan filed a complaint with Commissioner Walsh against the Lawrence policemen and later took it up with the federal attorney in Boston. After a conference yesterday the federal attorney ordered warrants to issue for the arrest of the three Lawrence officers.

the chances of accidents and adds another angle to a situation which in any viewpoint is far from acceptable. "The unad jail could be used to good advantage for permanent quarters by the state registry. The front rooms of the building in Thordike street could be devoted to offices and the wide expanse of Thordike street would be a far better place than Moody street for inexperienced drivers to demonstrate their qualifications."

Wouldn't Spoil Sale Chances

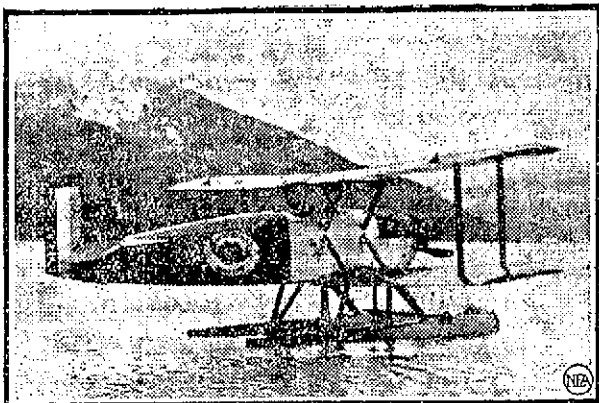

"Surely occupancy by the state registry would not affect the chances of sale of jail," Mr. Corbett continued. "I feel quite sure that all other points being acceptable that the public works department would take over the quarters without a loss. The matter of heat in the winter would have to be worked out but I think it would be possible to heat the front rooms of the building at not too great an expense. The county has an excellent chance to make a little money in rental until the ending of the summer at least. Perhaps and I cannot state the fact in this case, the state has already made arrangements to locate many of the Massachusetts building which it is remedied. This will require the better part of the summer at least."

"As a matter of public convenience and public safety I think the suggestion that the jail be used for the county headquarters and that other streets in the vicinity be used as the 'proving ground' for the license applicant, is worthy of the deepest consideration. I look to Commissioner Barlow to confer with his fellow commissioners on the subject and something may come of it."

FOR THE TEXTILE INDUSTRY

On May 5 Senator David I. Walsh introduced a resolve in the senate calling for a probe of the depression in the textile industry by the Tariff Commission, with a view to ascertaining the cause of the present depression and determining whether or to what extent it is the result of the importation of cotton fabrics. The purpose of the probe was to apply the remedy whether by an increased tariff or otherwise. Congressman Rogers now calls upon the Tariff Commission for a hearing on the need of a higher tariff to keep out the heavy imports of cotton cloth. Something of the kind should be done, but the lack of a foreign market will still remain as a handicap to our prosperity and is undoubtedly one of the main causes of the general dullness in the textile industry.

It is high time something were done to relieve at least in some degree, the acute depression in the textile industry, chiefly in the cotton mills. The tariff on woollens is much higher than that on cotton goods and this explains the comparatively moderate import of woollens. Now that both Senator Walsh and Cong. Rogers are giving their attention to the matter, it is to be hoped that something practical will be accomplished. It appears that the imported cottons are of a kind that injure New England mills more than those of the south. This is another reason why New England members of congress should move for adequate protection against such imports.

Under the flexible provision of the Fordney-McCumber tariff act, the president can raise or lower any particular schedule on recommendation of the Tariff Commission. The tariff on wheat was increased under this provision, although it had little effect because there was very little wheat imported. The case is different with cotton, of which the imports are now, and have been for the past year, quite heavy. But as Senator Walsh states, the depression in the textile industry does not result entirely from the importation of cotton cloth.

CLEAN UP AND PAINT UP

We are living by weeks, he the and starts, as it were. This is "Clean Up and Paint Up" week, one of the rather important designated week observances in the entire year. Spring cleaning is a usual practice everywhere in this country and the special appeal carried in the C. U. and P. U. is but one method of emphasizing the necessity of a general clean-up throughout the city.

It is quite remarkable that a great improvement has taken place along most of the older residential streets in the city as a result of the application of paint.

The owners, realizing the higher value of property, are now taking better care of it than formerly. Quite noticeable is the number of blocks painted a light rose color or a shade between terra cotta and pink. About 25 years ago there was hardly a house in the city of this color except the smaller houses of the Wheelock estate. Now, however, this color seems to be the tone on some streets, such as Everett street, Elm, Chapel and other streets of the same type. It is a warm color and fairly attractive. It is a great improvement upon the dull gray that has been very common, although an artist might criticize it as rather drab. But it answers all the purposes of the Paint Up week, and if property that needs paint gets a coat of any kind of good house paint, the appeal of the present week will be fully met.

Of course, only a small portion of the houses that need to be repainted can be attended to in one week, so that the campaign begun this week should be continued throughout the summer.

The fact that building operations are extensive and rents high, offers two excellent reasons for taking good care of paint estate which without paint and other repairs will soon depreciate.

Here it is that all the owners of property should get into this campaign of Clean Up and Paint Up. Those who own property may not do the painting, but they are responsible for keeping their properties strictly clean.

It is to be regretted that so many do not seem to appreciate this duty. Number in this respect is noticeable along some streets in which sidewalks and gutters are littered with rubbish, showing that the residents there are indifferent to cleanliness and apparently do not realize that they are in any way responsible for the condition of the surroundings. They seem to think that the city teams or the owner of the property should do all their cleaning. Such neglect calls for a visit from the police officer or the inspectors of the board of health, which it is to be hoped the ordinance for cleanliness in the interest of public health.

GENERAL EDWARDS' APPEAL
Gen. Edwards issues an appeal to the members of the American Legion to turn out in full numbers to the Memorial day parade as a mark of sympathy with the veterans of the first army.

He urges that every Legionnaire bring his post march with his post and parade with his comrades, and that the Legionnaires make all men who have not joined to march with them on that day.

He justly warns the Legionnaires that none of them can afford to give the slightest indication of indifference to the tribute to the nation's heroic dead to the living monument of the Grand Army of the Republic. In this he is perfectly correct. The city will then respect Gen. Edwards, a harmonious and patriotic element made up of the veterans who served in the various wars, in this his policy is likely to meet general commendation, and as for the Legionnaires, they will gladly follow his wise counsel.

DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGN
The democratic leaders are patiently watching the maneuvers of their republican opponents and are more or less amused at the conflict, making in the republican ranks. Were it not for President Coolidge, the party would resemble a disorganized mob with blows and blows being thrown at a La Follette party coming into the field.

Some weeks ago, it appeared that McAdoo seemed to have the lead as candidate for the presidential nomination. Recently, however, it seems that

Gov. Smith of New York, and Senator Underwood are steadily gaining in strength with the prospects in favor of the nomination of one or other of these two popular candidates. In case neither of these nor McAdoo can secure the necessary two-thirds vote in the democratic convention, it is plain that a compromise candidate must be named, but who that candidate will be, nobody can tell at this time. Senator Nelson of Indiana, who was among the original candidates, has recently been losing ground, but John W. Davis of West Virginia is regarded as a favorite possibility on a compromise.

There are various other candidates who may bob up and show strength in the convention, but they are among the dark horses of whom there is no certainty. It will take a strong man to beat Coolidge and to select such a man will be the main work of the New York convention.

FOR THE CINDER TRACK
The Sun is in full sympathy with the movement to provide a cinder track at Alumni field, and hopes that it will be a pronounced success. The plan of building bonds for the amount necessary is one that will meet a ready response, and we have no doubt that the necessary funds will be promptly subscribed. Without a cinder track our high school athletes would not have an equal chance with those of other cities, and their performance at Philadelphia should induce the community to provide the best means possible for their future training and the physical development of our high school students in general. This is what is intended to be accomplished through the construction of a first class cinder track at Alumni field. The organizations that have interested themselves in raising the necessary funds are doing a good work for Lowell.

CANAL SERVICE
The Panama canal has been doing more business than the land-cut at Suez. In 1923 only 146 tons of shipping passed through the Panama canal for every 207 tons through Suez. But the tables were reversed in 1922, when 217 tons of shipping used the Panama route for every 227 tons through Suez.

There are two reasons. First, Americans are using Panama canal more and more for coast-to-coast shipments because it is cheaper than the extremely high cost of shipment by railroads. Second, international foreign trade is slowly shifting to the Pacific and away from the Atlantic and Indian oceans.

AS TO DEADLY DUEL
Usually some pretty tough men are found in lumber camps, but, nevertheless, we do not believe that any two of them would engage in a duel with axes unless one or both were crazed with moonshine. We are inclined to the belief that this was the cause of the Graham tragedy which for savagery could not be surpassed. If men must fight, it is a decent thing to fight it out with bare fists, but with axes, horrible! Horrible!

DISTRICT COURT SITE
The county commission made short work of selecting a site for the new district court and the location chosen (highest indication of indifference to the tribute to the nation's heroic dead) to the living monument of the Grand Army of the Republic. The city will then respect Gen. Edwards, a harmonious and patriotic element made up of the veterans who served in the various wars, in this his policy is likely to meet general commendation, and as for the Legionnaires, they will gladly follow his wise counsel.

THE WEEK-END BROUGHT ANOTHER CRIST of automobile accidents and resulting fatalities. In some cases the drivers of the autos are to blame and in others, the victims of the accidents. One of the victims of most drivers is the lack of a child from the sidewalk across the street, in front of rapidly approaching autos. When will children be so impressed with the danger as to avoid such action.

The street department will find that the lines followed by the big motor trucks between this city and Boston, are very badly cut up. These street hills and high streets are already in bad shape, and these are but samples of the streets used by the big trucks. Some day a solidly paved street can stand such traffic.

A Thought
The dutifulness of children is the foundation of all virtues.—Cleora.

Perhaps a man who enjoys paying his taxes is as rare as a day in June. We might even go far enough to claim such a man is even more rare than a day in June. There are 30 days in June, but there are not 30 men who enjoy paying their taxes.

A Perfect Lady
In the privacy of his home the village butcher was telling his wife of the arrival of a new resident. "She came in today," he said with enthusiasm, "and I can tell you she's a real lady, brought up select and exclusive. She don't know one cut of meat from another, nor real from imitation."

Wise Young Man
That a certain young man is wise beyond his years was proved when he passed before answering a widow who had asked him to guess her age. "You must have some idea about it," she said. "I have several ideas," said the wise young man, with a smile. "The only trouble is that I hesitate whether to make you 10 years younger on account of your looks, or 10 years older on account of your brains."

Little Black Hen
The wind tore round the corner, removing the hat of a respectable and near-sighted man, who happened to be passing. Peering about, he thought he saw his hat in a yard behind a high fence. Hastily climbing over, he started to chase it, but each time he thought he had caught it, it got yet another move on. Then a woman's angry voice reached his ears. "What are you doing there?" she demanded shrilly. He explained mildly that he was only trying to retrieve his hat. "Your hat?" was the reply. "Well, I don't know where it is, but thanks our little black hen you're chasing."

Wanted to Bargain
A Scotsman disappeared in a crevasse in the Alps. His comrades could do nothing for him, but presently a large party with guides appeared and prepared to rescue the unfortunate man. A guide was lowered 40 feet into the crevasse, and presently sounds of conversation floated up. In a little while the guide appeared alone. He had found the Scot, sitting on some soft snow, with a broken leg, calmly smoking a pipe, and no less coolly refusing to be rescued until he had bargained as to the cost of the operation. A friend of his had been badly "had" over a job of the same sort, and he was determined to stay there until he came to terms. He won.

The Gladness of Nature
Is this a time to be cloudy and sad, When our mother Nature laughs and is glad? When even the deep blue heavens look glad, And gladness breathes from the blossoming ground?

There are notes of joy from the hang-bird and wren, And the gossip of swallows through all the sky; The green squirrel chirps by his den, And the wildling bee hums merrily by.

The clouds are at play in the azure, And their shadows at play on the bright-green vale, And here they stretch to the frolic chase, And there they roll on the easy gale.

There's a dance of leaves in that aspen grove, There's a twitter of winds in that beechen tree, There's a smile on the fruit, and a smile on the flower, And a laugh from the brook that runs to the sea.

And look at the broad faced sun, how he smiles, On the dewy earth that smiles in his ray, On the leaping waters and gay young fish.

Ay, look, and behold smile thy gloom away. —WILLIAM CULLEN BRYANT

MAN ABOUT TOWN
My letter this week from Editor Jimmy Hearne, who holds down an office berth with busy fingers at the U. S. veterans' bureau in Washington and keeps me well informed on affairs relating to the work of distributing aid to needy veterans of the World war, contains interesting matter relative to the new veterans' hospital No. 26, in Northampton, Mass. When I saw that number 26, I hardly knew what it meant, until I learned that it is the official number of the new veterans' hospital and that is not the highest number either. "Jimmy" informs me that a warm friend of the veterans—Dr. Appleton R. Pierce, senior surgeon, U. S. Public Health Service reserve, has just been appointed medical officer in charge of the recently completed U. S. veterans' hospital at Northampton. Dr. Pierce is a native of the Bay State and received his public school education in the town of his birth, Leominster. He is a graduate of Harvard Medical School and Worcester State hospital, has practiced medicine from 1897 to 1917. In his home town, Leominster, he served as a major in the hospital service and returned with highest honors in the field of his calling. Dr. Pierce when I was a resident of Northampton some years ago, and I know that he is a man after the World war veterans' own heart. He will not fail them, I believe, and I am sure he will not be found wanting.

There is a chart on the wall of one of the offices of Locks and Canals Proprietors, that has been hanging there for a good many years, but I never happened to notice it until one day last week, when I called to log a few weather reports to Bill on a summary I was making and thought I had completed. All weather reports are kindly furnished to the newspapers or anybody by Locks and Canals representatives any day and almost at any time you wish. It is gratuitous service and the proprietors take pride in their water, weather and other tabulated readings that are so necessary in conducting a water-power service organization of this kind. The chart I speak of above, is filled with tiny holes for wooden plugs, each having industrial plant obtaining water power from the Locks and Canals, reporting each day the number of mill wheels to be

Tom Sims Says

Women who know how to raise children are kept too busy to tell.

A summer resort is a place where everybody is from somewhere.

New York is a place where you can live all your life and still feel you are away from home.

This is the time of the year the college seniors worry over how much money bricklayers are making.

The balance of power in Europe depends chiefly upon their balance of mind.

We like winter better than summer because the flies don't.

If they don't hurry up with these political conventions, the weather will be too warm to worry over who is nominated.

Many summer resorts advertise as the playground of the nation; when, really, the front porch is that.

In Los Angeles, a man was arrested for spanking his wife. Rustles had their advantages.

There are more ducks in China than in all the rest of the world, but not more smart ducks.

Many parents are not on spanking terms with their children.

A used car owner tells us he thinks he is driving a bargain. People go in a lot of trouble they should keep away from.

One idea of nothing to worry about, all night, is business taking money away from Wall Street.

JUNIOR PATRONS ELECT OFFICERS

At the meeting of the Junior Patrons of the Old Ladies' home, Saturday afternoon, at which the officers for the year were elected, final plans were made for the annual frolic which will be held on Saturday evening next, in Colonial hall. There will be general dancing from 8 to 11 o'clock, and a general good time is assured those who attend. Mrs. Rodrigue Mignault is in charge of the affair and tickets may be procured by telephoning 556.

The officers for the coming year are as follows: President, Miss Gertrude Carmichael; vice-president, Miss Eunice Cook; treasurer, Miss Elizabeth Lambert; secretary, Miss Miriam Secor.

run that day. The mills do not use all their water wheels at all times. Sometimes they are not used for weeks at a time in certain mill areas, but the round wooden pegs on the chart in the Locks and Canals offices show the number of wheels being used each day, and it is an interesting thing to read, the case tells approximately the mills that are doing more business by using more water wheels. A short row of pins might indicate curtailed production. Still, the board with the pins in the Locks and Canals wheel-checking chart, does not always mean that a mill is not running regularly or prosperously, for a number of large Lowell textile mills today are using fuel oil and big turbine engines in preference to power furnished by water wheels.

Lowell contractors do not confine their activities to the home city when business calls from outside. I note that the well-known Zed A. Houle, contractor and builder, with offices at 53 Central street, and well known in his line of business, is at present engaged in erecting a new Catholic church building for St. Joseph's in Haverhill. It will be of brick and limestone, with basement and gallery, and a structure of much attractiveness as well as solemn splendor. Contractor Daniel H. Walker is finishing a big hospital for the Sisters of Charity at Waterville, Me.

Barackman Charles H. Harrington, long a popular employee at the Middlesex street railroad station, has become a dealer and breeder of cocker spaniels on the side. General Charles has the craze for fancy-bred canines for fair, and is a true-river winner, too. It is the different railroad man's first attempt in "the dog business." You have to start with selected stock first, before you can make sales in the pedigree books on the pups that follow later on from the kennels. Mr. Harrington has established "Highland Kennels" at his home, 25 Morey street, and leads his string of cocker spaniels with "Shookums" a top-notch. The best thing about brother Harrington is that he is not in the game to become a millionaire. He has a fine dog and he is proud of the cocker spaniel strain, so he will have a kennel of his own and his friends can make their selections if they see fit to.

CONCERT AT AUDITORIUM

Holy Cross Musical Club

Coming This Evening—Concert and Dancing

The Holy Cross musical club, 100 strong, comes to the Memorial Auditorium this evening under the auspices of the Holy Cross club of Lowell. A grand concert will be given from 8 until 9:30 o'clock, after which general dancing (informal) will be in order. The coming of the Holy Cross musical organization to this city is regarded as an honor by Holy Cross men here, as it is only on rare occasions that the college authorities allow the club to go on the road. The proceeds of this evening's concert will be subscribed to a fund for the establishment of a scholarship for deserving Lowell boys.

Of particular interest to local patrons will be the appearance of Norbert J. O'Brien, son of Daniel S. O'Brien, the well-known Lowell clothier. Norbert is a freshman at the Worcester Institute and will be seen here as a member of the orchestra. In high school, he was a star scholar, being valedictorian of the class of 1924. He has continued his good work in the Worcester college both in the scholastic and musical lines. Other Lowell boys will also be seen in the Auditorium production.

NO CHANGES MADE IN LOCAL PASTORATES

No changes are to be made in the pastorates of the Lowell Primitive Methodist churches this year. It was learned yesterday. Local delegates have returned from the Eastern Primitive Methodist conference, held in Londale, R. I., last week. Rev. Alice Haire is re-elected to the pastorate of Lawrence Street P. M. church and Rev. John T. Ullom to the Matthews' Memorial.

Rev. Arthur Hiley of Lowell, who has been preaching in the Matthews' Third church for the past year, has been appointed pastor at Faxon, N. H., and will take up his new duties there next Sunday. He will preach his farewell to the Lowell district at the Matthews' Memorial on Thursday evening of this week.

Delegates to the annual convention in Londale were generously honored in the election of conference officers. Rev. John T. Ullom was elected general secretary. Rev. Elijah Humphries of Billerica was chosen president of the conference for the coming year. Graham Pansall of the Matthews' Memorial, was chosen recording secretary.

Members of the Matthews' Memorial church will tender a reception to Rev. Mr. Ullom and his family, Thursday evening, May 22.

MEETING OF THE LOWELL PRESS CLUB

At the regular meeting of the Lowell Press club, held yesterday afternoon in chamber of commerce headquarters, the secretary was instructed to send a letter of commendation and a gift to the publishers and staff of the Boston Post for the loss of their leader, Edwin A. Grozier.

The meeting was the most successful in the club's history, the attendance being very large and everyone present joining in the discussions. Various plans were discussed whereby the club might further its purpose, that of aiding in the betterment of journalism, and it was decided that the club bring to this city as speakers, newspapermen

TIRELESS WIRELESS

What's the use of real statistics on the static of the air? What's the difference what is floating through the space? Just as long as we are positive that something's really there, let's be satisfied to let it have its place.

Since the tireless wireless doings have been part of daily life, all the world has turned to gently tuning in. And we listen, scared of missing things of gladness or of strife, and we share the tireless wireless with our kin.

Mother, Aunt, and Sister Mary stay at home most every night. They are harking to an open far away. Father, Uncle, Brother Harry get the progress of a fight, and the tireless wireless works both night and day.

Music comes and fills the household and there's cheerfulness galore and it makes you kinda glad that you were born. Goodness knows who's in the future and what wonders are in store when, today, they take the air sounds from a horn.

Lots of credit's due the wireless that's as tireless as can be, for it picks up sounds that far and wide are buried. Reaching out and getting something, when there's nothing we can see, it is just another wonder of the world.

FIRE DRIVES FAMILIES TO THE STREET

Fire in a three-tenement block at 378 Adams street, at about 1 o'clock this morning, drove members of four families residing there to the street in various stages of undress and caused damage to the property estimated at $1200.

The fire was discovered by George Poulakos, owner of the block and occupant of one tenement. He went in an alarm from box 116 and awakened the other occupants of the building. The fire spread rapidly through partitions in the rear of the house and the occupants rushed to the street without waiting to dress properly. They were cared for by neighbors until the fire was extinguished and then returned to their homes.

Upon the arrival of the fire apparatus, flames were visible in the partitions in the rear of the building on all three floors and were breaking through the roof. Several hose lines were brought into action quickly and within an hour the blaze was extinguished. The recall was sounded shortly before 2 o'clock.

HENLE'S COLUMN

NEW YORK, May 12.—By far the most interesting book of this week is "Footlights and Spotlights—Recollections of My Life on the Stage," by Ouis Skinner (Boile-Merrill).

Not alone is the reader given a pen photograph of the life of the famous American actor, but he is given also a well rounded description of the American theatre during its tottering days. Mr. Skinner thinks that the dramatists of today make more money by writing failures than those of 16 years ago made by their successes. Play-writing of half a century ago was a poorly paid profession. Scarcely anyone could make a living at it. If, now and then, an original play saw the light, it was commonly the work of one who made his living by other literary or newspaper work. Shakespeare, the classics, standard print pieces—these were generally the fare the managers brought forth.

Skinner starts his volume by telling how his father gave him a letter of introduction to P. T. Barnum, a friend, and how Barnum in turn gave him the following letter which landed him the first job:

"The bearer, O. A. Skinner, Esq., the note read, 'is known to me. His parents whom I have known in Hartford, Conn., for several years, are eminently respectable. Mr. Skinner has an ambition, a talent and a yearning for the stage. I have no doubt that he will prove an important acquisition to any theatrical corps which he may join. P. T. Barnum."

The note was addressed "To Whom It May Concern."

Armed with this, young Skinner went to Philadelphia and obtained a job at $7 a week.

Skinner's book is rich with anecdotes about famous men and women of the stage. It would naturally be for a man who has played 325 parts, who has appeared in 16 plays of Shakespeare, in which he appeared at various times in 33 different parts, and who has produced under his own direction 33 plays.

The most human part of the book tells about his struggles, when he did not have a dime in his name. He says of himself at that time, "I was an uneducated piece of dynamite in the swim of theatrical wash." New York loomed cold and forbidding, just as it still looms to many who come here annually to try their luck on the stage.

Francine Larrimore in "Nancy Ann," after five weeks in New York, now goes on tour. Why this show didn't last longer in New York is a mystery. It's thoroughly enjoyable and will be liked by people in other cities.

"Bardelys the Magnificent" is the latest Sabatini romance to find its way from the Houghton Mifflin press. A review of the last Sabatini book will suffice for this one. They're more or less alike, except in this one the author chooses the reign of the French Louis XIII for his setting. His hero is a handsome, reckless fellow, just like all Sabatini heroes.

MAKE IT A CLEANER CITY CAMPAIGN

From some source in the community there always is coming the call for a "Clean Up Day" or a "Clean Up Week."

Whoever makes the suggestion will mean well, but he or she really would help the community more by starting the slogan: "Don't call it a 'day' nor a 'week.' Let's have a real campaign."

A "day" is merely pathetic, and a "week" is hardly long enough to make even a fair start.

Make it a "campaign"! And keep it up as long as may be necessary to do a real job; then renew it on the same basis, spring and fall, to "get ready for the indoor months."

That's the first essential of any successful community effort in such work.

The second essential is to publicly commit to the new order of things, whatever is cleaned up. For example, converting the unsightly dump into a playground, or painting the vacant lot with the green of grass and shrubbery or a thrift garden—but, however it be done, "clothe it in the garb of cleanliness" and thereafter its cleanliness

ROYAL P. WHITE IS NAMED DELEGATE

Royal P. White, agent of Stirling mill and director of Lowell chamber of commerce, has been selected as official representative of the local chamber at the eleventh national foreign trade convention, to be held in Boston on June 4, 5 and 6.

Many members of the Lowell organization will attend the convention on one or all days scheduled, but Mr. White was chosen to act in all matters calling for official representation of the local business body. The choice is regarded as an excellent one, for Delegate White will find himself in a position to mingle with representatives of business organizations conducting 1924 campaigns of commerce in every section of the world.

It will be the first time that an attempt has been made to solve intricate export problems that now heavily retard the spread of American commerce to the far ends of the earth. Programs of the past, well arranged and promising in many instances, have no bearing on the needs of the present day, in the opinion of Lowell business men who are looking for larger outlets for American-made merchandise.

Interest in the coming national foreign trade convention today centres largely in a new export advertising exhibit, which contains many features to be shown for the first time in this country.

Lowell commercial interests are discussing the feature in prospective with animation today.

Secretary-Manager George F. Wells today received considerable data covering the program for the new export advertising exhibit. It was prepared by a special committee representing the Association of National Advertisers and the American Association of Advertising Agencies—two of many national organizations co-operating with the National Foreign Trade council on this convention.

Expected to Make Saving

It is believed that this exhibit will not only attract a great deal of attention, but will save many thousands of dollars to business men of New England who are in foreign trade, as well as to those from other sections of the United States.

Particular emphasis will be laid on newspaper advertising as the most valuable way in which to reach the buyers abroad as well as at home. Not only advertising, but export advertising is a new art in foreign trade. In the early days of American overseas trading, "advertising" was of a very different nature. It was the custom to sail into a port, arrange an attractive display of wares on deck or elsewhere, then invite the merchants and others of the town to come aboard ship and look them over. Every port in New England—Boston, Portland, Providence, Salem and others—is filled with memories of these early traders of the sea.

Big Advertising Exhibit

The advertising exhibit to be the most important feature of the national trade conference in Boston next month, consists of two parts: First, American-prepared export advertising material; second, foreign-prepared material used by competitors of American exporters. The American exhibit shows advertising campaigns as prepared by five typical exporters; the foreign consists of examples of typical advertising collected all over the world.

The object of the American exhibit is to show what has been done by exporters both in methods and in sales achieved. The object of the foreign exhibit is to give an idea of advertising methods and media popular abroad and which may offer suggestions for Americans to adopt and probably improve upon.

Each of the five American exporters who prepared typical exhibits of their work furnished data and samples of advertising under these heads: 1.—The method employed in marketing goods. 2.—The method employed in establishing its advertising budget. 3.—The method of expending its appropriations: directly by home office, partly by home office, partly by dealers, etc. There are also programs for preparing and distributing complete descriptions of the campaign in one foreign market for three years, showing how budgets are

Majority Given to Parties of Left Brought About Poincare's Decision to Resign

June 4 Earliest Constitutional Date Government Could Have Chosen to Quit

PARIS, May 13. (By the Associated Press.)—Premier Poincare and his recently reorganized ministry will step from power June 4.

The premier interpreted the majority given to the parties of the left in Sunday's parliamentary elections as a repudiation of his government and forthwith decided to resign. His decision was ratified at a council of ministers held this morning in the Palace of the Elisee under the chairmanship of Pres. Millerand.

The new chamber of deputies will meet on June 2, elect its president, officials and secretaries, and then adjourn until the fourth when the new president will deliver the opening address. The first official business transaction will be when M. Poincare reads his declaration of resignation.

June 4 was the earliest constitutional date the government could have chosen to resign.

It had been a foregone conclusion since the definite results of the election became known that the cabinet would resign, but what the time and circumstances of the resignation would be remained undetermined until this morning's meeting.

The cabinet deliberated an hour and a half on the question whether it would be possible to resign immediately. It was finally decided it would be improper and not according to precedent to open a ministerial crisis before the new chamber had even assembled and before the various groups had organized and positions had been taken with reference to a governmental combination.

The ministers all agreed, however, that they could in the meantime only undertake to care for current business in their departments, leaving all problems involving questions of policy for their successors.

Today's action of the cabinet is regarded as making the meeting which was to be held here at President Poincare and Macdonald on May 15 impossible. The leaders of the majority which will make up the eventual government bloc in the chamber are understood all to favor the application of the Dawes reparations plan, but as there is more than the mere details of the execution of this plan to be discussed between the French and British premier, Premier Poincare considered there was no longer the necessary authority in his hands to conduct the negotiations.

Discussion in radical and socialist circles as to the formation of the new government, indicates that the leaders of the coalition bloc of the left will insist upon the socialists receiving their full share of the honors. Already a strong movement is on foot in favor of a socialist as president of the chamber. This project, if pursued up to the opening of the chamber's sessions, seems likely to bring on the first clash between the new majority and opposition. In view of the small margin the radicals and radical socialists will be able to make without the help of the more moderate elements, some doubt is entertained as to whether a socialist could be elected to that post, even if the radicals were willing to support him.

Premier Poincare remains the most talk of probability for the post.

MAYOR CURLEY MOVES FOR SENATE PROBE OF CALVIN COOLIDGE FINANCE COMMITTEE

BOSTON, May 13.—Mayor Curley in a letter to Senator Walsh of Massachusetts made public today asks that the senatorial committee investigating alleged corrupt activities, of which Senator Walsh is a member, investigate what he terms "an organized plan for corruption" by means of an organization known as the Massachusetts Calvin Coolidge Finance committee. The mayor quotes as follows from what purports to be a letter sent out from the offices of the Walworth Manufacturing Co. in this city, on April 21, under the sign of G. F. Elliott, chairman of the Pipe Fittings & Allied Material group of the finance committee. "There is no limit to the amount an individual may give to this committee. Large contributions will be so divided as to give full observance to the requirements of the statutes." This paragraph, Mayor Curley says in his letter, "has a sinister significance and indicates cynical determination to evade the provisions of the corrupt practices law." The mayor charges that William M. Butler, who has been selected to be chairman of the republican national committee is back of a "nation-wide corruption campaign" and that President Coolidge is "fully cognizant of its purposes."

MILL GIRLS ARE ALL VERSATILE

So Says Cornelius F. Cronin
Who Has Every Reason to
Know Whereof He Speaks

Many Affected by Curtail-
ments Competent to Do
Office Work He Finds

The widespread unemployment situation today affecting Lowell prosperity in many homes where men and women have been removed temporarily from payrolls of local textile industrial establishments, has caused the tabulated rolls of unemployed Lowell feminine applicants for work to increase very largely. Supt. Cornelius F. Cronin of the civil employment bureau, stated to The Sun, this morning.

The latest anxious applicants, swelling the already large number of women and girls earnestly seeking employment of some kind suitable with which to obtain fair living wages, appear to be well trained in their various callings. All applicants interviewed are excellent in past performance.

Not all of the new feminine applicants for "employment of any kind" are former mill workers. Mr. Cronin stated: "The majority have had excellent and well-attested experience in lines of desirable public service, such as bookkeeping, typewriting, salesmanship, work in supervisory capacities, departmental handling of workers and office tasks of similar category. The majority are well educated and products of Lowell schools."

Many Prefer Housework

Applicants are found on the books, also, who are anxious to perform housework—excellent women of character and high recommendations—some of them teaching, the end of house resources financially and compelled to seek employment in the open field in order to support families, relatives or sick ones. Some of the tales told by feminine visitors, whose names are well known to Supt. Cronin, and attested as Lowell residents of long standing, are almost unbelievable, the official said.

The dearth of situations open to applicants now crowding the lists at the civil employment bureau at city hall, is one containing very features, covering almost unbelievable situations affecting the situation in Lowell today. The placing of well-recommended applicants, male and female, for positions of any kind, is one of the most difficult problems facing Supt. Cronin today. He believes that the situation would be relieved appreciably if an advertising campaign could be conducted through newspaper channels and supported by municipal funds.

In the meantime, the superintendent, with a long list of waiting men and women hoping in vain for something to turn up that they may earn a few dollars to tide them over until they get regular employment, is anticipating that something will yet be done to properly place the requirements of the applicants appealing to him in their dire necessity, before the public. It should be done in such a way that will attract attention and obtain desired results in relieving at least some of the most agonizing conditions now existing that are now causing the very serious situation of the Cronin employment bureau and are pathetic in the extreme.

PROM BY SENIOR CLASS OF HIGH SCHOOL

The annual prom by the senior class of the high school will be held Friday evening, May 16, in Colburn hall. This affair is the most important social event by the senior class prior to graduation and is always very successful.

The committee in charge of the prom, headed by Merrill Chalkins, has been active for over a month in making arrangements for the affair and announces now that everything is in readiness. Colburn hall has been decorated throughout with ribbons and streamers, the glass chandeliers and gold, being conspicuously placed throughout the hall. One of the best orchestras in the city has been engaged for the event and many novelties will be put on by the committee. Tickets have sold rapidly and it is expected that the attendance will be far greater than at any previous prom affair.

COOKING DOUGHNUTS

Doughnuts should not be turned more than once while cooking. If so, far too cold the doughnuts will absorb some of it, and it too hot they will brown before they have risen sufficiently. Keep the temperature uniform.

Locks & Canals proprietors report the total depth of rainfall, covering the past five days in Lowell, only 1.59 inches. The heaviest rainfall of the five-day period came from 8 a. m. yesterday to 8 a. m. today—exactly 1.07 inches.

Atmospheric conditions in Lowell rivalled the City of Fog across the Atlantic. Spectacular masses of railroad locomotive smoke in the vicinity of the Middlesex street station frequently swept in great dirty-white masses for many hundreds yard up and down Middlesex, Thordike, Chalmers and Westford streets in the station neighborhood, blocking traffic on streets and sidewalks repeatedly and often halting traffic entirely, particularly during the crowded hours of noon and early evening, yesterday.

The weather man, after making his forecast of unsettled weather for today and hitting it right up to 10 a. m., at least, has given up some his forecast today that we deeply pass along to inquisitive Sun readers.

Then he takes a Grand Canyon yawn—as shown above.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT HANGS HIMSELF

NEWARK, N. J., May 13.—Louis Siegel, 14, high school student, hanged himself today in a garage at the rear of his home, according to County Physician Warren, who gave a verdict of suicide. The boy's body was found by his mother. The youth's parents said they believed their son's timidity, the result of an injury to his head in an automobile accident in 1922, led the boy to end his life. He had been missing since last evening.

NEW YORK, May 13.—John A. Schwab, father of Charles M. Schwab died today at his home in Loretto, Pa., the Bethlehem Steel Corporation announced. He was in his 85th year.

PITTSBURGH STREET CAR TRAFFIC RESUMED

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 13.—Street car traffic here, paralyzed by a three-day strike of motormen and conductors was resumed on normal schedule today. The strike ended late yesterday when the men voted to accept a two-year contract under the present maximum of 87 cents an hour. The company will pay 50 per cent of the cost of one uniform a year, for each man.

BUILDER OF MANHATTAN BRIDGE DEAD

NEW YORK, May 13.—Edward F. Terry, builder of the Manhattan bridge across the East river here and of five bridges across the Mississippi river, is dead at his home in Rivedale. He died yesterday at the age of 67.

Motormen perked up and smiled once straw hat windows bloomed brightly once again.

And 15 more trusting citizens wrote to the street department about the fearful condition of Chalmers street from Smith street as far as the well known hospital.

WALSH REPLIES TO BIRD

Defends His Vote for Jones

Corporation Tax Amendment to Revenue Bill

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts yesterday sent the following reply to a telegram which he received from Charles Sumner Bird criticizing the democratic senators for supporting the Jones corporation tax amendment to the revenue bill.

"You have evidently been misled or misinformed about the corporation tax amendment inserted by the senate and for which I voted.

"This amendment reduces the present corporation tax by nearly 10 per cent upon nearly 20 per cent of all corporations paying taxes. It increases the tax only upon those few corporations retaining over 70 per cent of their undistributed net income. The tax upon such corporations, which embrace the large profit-making corporations, is gradually increased as a surplus in excess of 20 per cent is retained.

"The purpose is to make corporations pay their just proportion of tax burdens, and instead of taxing dividends that can be taxed, create surpluses, as to pay stock dividends that are not taxed.

"In condemning this amendment, I hope you will not overlook the great benefit it will give to the overwhelming majority of corporations which make little or no surplus and have had their taxes increased instead of reduced, and have to pay under the present law the same tax as those who make enormous surpluses.

"The present law is outrageously discriminatory against the corporations that are not making large earnings, and no corporation tax law which does not differentiate between profit-making and non-profit-making corporations is fair.

"There is, however, no likelihood of their amendment being retained in the law, because the conferees controlled by the republicans will eliminate it, for they believe in taxing 11 per cent on rich and poor corporations alike.

"May I request one sentence in your telegram? The existing corporation profit tax is sufficiently burdensome.

"There is no corporation profit tax. It was repealed in 1921 and at the same time an indefensible and most unfair increased tax was levied upon the non-profit-making corporations."

Other members of the assembly were out in force last night and were enthusiastic over the prospects of a notable day next Sunday.

Mr. Knights Walter H. Hickey and John E. Hart were designated as a special committee on tickets for Sunday's dinner. Reservations locally and out-of-town will be handled by this

Woodrow Wilson admittedly owed his first nomination at Baltimore largely to William Jennings Bryan, who stood like a rock against Champ Clark and New York's Tammany organization. Warren G. Harding owed much to shrewd manipulation at Chicago in 1920 by Harry M. Daugherty. Mr. Coolidge's nomination for vice president was allcommittee. The tickets will be distributed to Lowell members Friday evening, at the store of Thomas J. Fitzgerald, upper Merrimack street. Mr. Hickey's telephone number is 6243-W and Mr. Hart's 1629-J, where reservations can be made.

Councilor James F. Hennessey's aids and ushers will be announced tomorrow, at which time a meeting for instructions will be arranged, for it is planned to have a division of different sections of the Auditorium where the visiting delegates may sit and also check their clothes and hence Mr. Hennessey states that it is imperative that every usher be on hand.

AMERICANS IN ACTION

United States sailors and marines still occupy Puerto Cortes and other ports in Honduras where Central America's latest revolution now is in progress. Here is a party of gobs from the U. S. S. Denver "digging in."

This stockade, thrown up by United States marines in a Honduran city, marks the beginning of the "neutral zone." A native woman is seen entering it on her way to market.

SAYS PROHIBITION SIGN OF UPWARD TREND

That prohibition is a positive sign of an upward trend in the nation's morality, is the belief of Rev. Burton Lockhard, D.D., of Manchester, N. H., who delivered an illuminating address on "The Moral Drift of Our Age," before the members of the Baptist Social Union, at First Baptist church last evening. The speaker is pastor emeritus of the Manchester First Congregational church.

His address was filled with interest because of the novel views expressed and the method of comparisons employed in "sizing up" the United States of today as compared with the times ago, when alcoholic liquors were openly dispensed to all comers over public bars. Dr. Lockhard discounted the remarks of Dr. Butler of Columbia university, who has stated that eleven republican states of the Union would have to adopt a wet plank in the coming campaign to remain solid for the party. The Manchester clergyman declared that remarks like that sounded like "opera bouffe."

New Hampshire and Pennsylvania were named as two important states that have discovered that "prohibition has worked out well." The clergyman said the "moral trend of the country" was upward. The four signs which Dr. Lockhard considered were most encouraging were the freeing of the slaves throughout the world in all civilized countries; the 18th amendment; the growing ideal for world peace and the political emancipation of women.

The speaker declared that the people of the country at large "were tired of the political machinations and influence of the open saloon, as well as its peculiar vices, and do not want it back again."

Previous to the address, dinner was served by women of the church, and President Harold F. Howe presided at a brief business meeting of the union. The next meeting of the social organization will take place next September. George R. Myers, Loring Trull and Rev. W. Judson Setzer comprise a nominating committee which will report at that time.

Files Application for Permit To Operate Busses

This paper a week ago, and if granted will mark a radical change in the matter of transportation. The street railway company has long had eager eyes on the thousands of local persons who commute daily to Boston via the Boston & Maine railroad, and it is believed the underlying purpose of the express bus line is to get this business for the street railway company.

Applications for permits have already been filed in Boston, Lowell and the several other cities and towns through which the busses will run. The route chosen by the railway company is out Gotham street to Bellerica, to Burlington, over the new road formerly known as the "snake road" to Winchester, from there to Arlington and Cambridge to a terminal in Charles street, Boston, opposite the Boston common.

The service which these busses would render would be hourly, it is believed at the present time, and the trip between the two cities would take an hour. It is believed by those familiar with street railway matters that the proposed line from this city to Boston is an experiment and, if successful, will mark the beginning of similar lines in many cities within a radius of 30 miles of Boston.

FR. DEVLIN ADDRESSES EPISCOPAL CLERGYMEN

WALTHAM, May 12.—An extraordinary scene was that in the vestry of Christ's Episcopal church, Rev. Francis E. Webster, rector, at noon yesterday when an audience of Episcopal clergymen, all members of the Massachusetts Episcopal association, listened to an address by Very Rev. William Devlin, S.J., head of Boston college, on "Preparation for the Priesthood in the Jesuit Order."

The invitation to address the association was extended by its president, Rev. Thomas R. Campbell, rector of St. John's church, Jamaica Plain, and more than 20 clergymen responded. Rev. Harry E. Lennan, pastor of St. Patrick's church, Milford, N. H., whose interest was aroused by this unusual event, came down, and upon hearing of this Rev. W. D. Armstrong, rector of the Church of Our Saviour, a warm friend of Fr. Devlin, also came to Waltham to hear the address.

Fr. Devlin spoke for an hour and at the end of his exposition submitted to a series of questions by his auditors. After the discussion the party adjourned for luncheon.

"I am very glad to introduce Rev. William Devlin," said Rev. Mr. Campbell. "Among the men who have addressed the club have been men prominent in religious life and so we have asked Fr. Devlin to come here to address us on 'Preparation for the Priesthood in the Jesuit Order.' That is one of the greatest organizations in the world. Men in its ranks have been teachers, leaders, and missionaries, men who made great sacrifices. No object has been too great for them to overcome."

Study Courses Outlined
After thanking Mr. Campbell and the society for its invitation, Fr. Devlin took up the very long course which the young Jesuits have to follow. "There were in 1923," he said, "15,000 young men under instruction, about 9000 priests and 5000 scholastics. We call the young men until their day of ordination scholastics."

"We have 160 lay brothers. They do not aspire to the priesthood. At present we never receive anyone into the ranks of the lay brothers who has any desire of going further in studies towards the priesthood."

"We used to take boys from colleges and high schools and sometimes with very insecure backgrounds of learning and train them ourselves. Some of these have become noted. Fr. McElroy, who preached in the church of the Immaculate Conception, entered the order as a lay brother and became a valuable man in the priesthood and in the service of the society in this part of the country."

"The general of the society lives in Rome and sometimes is called the black pope, in contrast to the red pope," Fr. Devlin explained. "I don't think the black pope has any too great influence over the white pope. That, however, is merely a color."

loquial expression. The general is elected for life and selects his assistants from the men who have been given prominence in the order. We have them in California, Missouri, New Orleans and the Maryland-New York province, to which I belong. We were established many years ago in the 'ulterior settlement.'

"The Maryland-New York province was the cradle of the society. We received into the society of this Boston province about 30 young men every summer and it is the training of these young men that we have to attend to here."

The speaker said that besides the work of the churches the society had the services of the house writers with their magazines like the Sacred Heart Review, and they conduct a printing establishment at Fordham. The speaker said a young man must gain permission if he is to leave the society. "I obtain the names of about 50 boys in Boston who mostly come to many from the colleges. I present them high school, as do not receive about half a dozen boys after they solve each year from Boston college and from all the other schools in the province."

Tests of Routine
The speaker told of the consultants the student must go to in the morning, who do the work in one morning of the strict inquiry as to moral character. If they have ethical obligations they do not take them. The bar must come in of his own volition; and he must not come in merely naturally.

At Blackwell's Island, New York, Fr. Devlin said, "I was given charge of 500 consumptives. We arose at 4:30 every morning and three times a day we went the rounds to see the sick," and thus Fr. Devlin outlined again and again the strenuous lives of these men who give themselves up for the betterment of mankind.

HECKLING BY RADIO

Heckling done by radio! It's possible, but it's a greater nuisance than the heckling in an auditorium. It was tried recently during a democratic meeting in Kansas City, when the speeches were broadcast. A "heckler" attached an oscillator to an antenna and so "bashed up" the program as to make its reception unintelligible.

Allenthu has been tried and tested for years and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and pitiable and where the patient was helpless.

Mr. James H. Allen, of Rochester, N. SAFE FOR BABY

A Lewiston Mother Recommends

Baby's Own Tablets

Mothers themselves are the best judges of the value of medicines that promote the health of little children. Strong evidence of the worth of Baby's Own Tablets is the fact that every mother who once uses them is an enthusiastic advocate of their merits ever afterward.

"I have found Baby's Own Tablets to be a gentle laxative and a safe remedy for children," says Mrs. LaRoy S. Green, of No. 186½ Blaine street, Lewiston, Me. "They are pleasant to take and the children like them. They eat them like candy. As a bowel regulator I do not think the tablets can be equalled. I will always recommend Baby's Own Tablets to my friends who have children."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by all druggists or will be mailed on receipt of price, twenty-five cents per box, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. With every package is wrapped a booklet, "The Care of the Baby in Health and Sickness."—Adv.

HAIR OFTEN RUINED By Careless Washing

Soap should be used very carefully. If you want to keep your hair looking its best, many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Multisided coconut oil shampoo, which is pure and greaseless, and is better than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonfuls is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and easy to manage.

You can get Multisided coconut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.—Adv.

VITAL ERROR IN TRAFFIC REPORT

Copy Sent to Gov. Cox Had

Clause Not Approved by

Public Safety Committee

Variation Threatened Goodwin's Job—How it Got in

a Mystery

ROSTON, May 13.—Members of the Massachusetts public safety committee, whose recommendations for making Massachusetts roads safe were sent to the legislature yesterday by the governor, got quite a shock last evening when they discovered that published copies of their report did not correspond with the report they signed.

The variation was not great—it consisted merely of the insertion of an insignificant little clause—but it that little clause was a powerful effect on the motor-vehicle situation.

It might have paved the way for the ousting of Registrar Frank A. Goodwin, whose stormy career and ruthless campaigning have created a large circle of enemies who would like to see the last of him.

At present the appointment and removal of the registrar of motor vehicles is in the hands of the commissioner of public works. The clause which somehow found its way into the report submitted to Gov. Cox would change that and place his appointment directly in the hands of the governor. Incidentally, it would probably mean that Mr. Goodwin's present appointment would automatically expire when the new legislation took effect, unless he were again appointed by the governor.

The last clause is the punch line, urged that this report receive your

It does not appear in the carbon copy held by members of the committee, and should not have appeared in the report submitted to the governor.

Gen. John H. Sherburne, chairman of the public safety committee, who submitted the final report to the governor, said last night that it was a surprise to him to see the clause in question published. He said he did not know how it got in, but did not believe it was inserted in the governor's office.

"As far as I know anything about it," he said, "it is a typographical error. We were in a hurry to get out the report and we did not have an opportunity to check it up. Those sheets went in without checking. I am very much surprised, because the report should have been submitted as signed."

The clause in question did appear in one of the rough drafts of the report, but the committee later cut it out.

The Governor's Message

Some surprise was expressed that Gov. Cox made no comment on this clause of the report when urging the immediate passage of legislation recommended by the committee. The governor's message to the legislature was made public at the same time as the report.

The message said: "It is earnestly urged that this report receive your Immediate and serious consideration, and that the recommended legislation be enacted at this session. There can be no duty which transcends in importance the safeguarding of the lives and limbs of our citizens."

The message and report were referred to the legislative committee on highways and motor vehicles. This committee will consider them and set a date for a public hearing.

The committee which drew up the report is made up of Gen. Sherburne, Thomas P. Sullivan, James T. Sullivan, Courtney Crocker and Lewis E. MacBrayne.

The recommendations of the committee were incorporated in four bills submitted with the report as follows:

1. To increase the penalty for operating after suspension or revocation of license.

2. To authorize courts to suspend licenses.

3. To make the function of judges and the registrar of motor vehicles more definite.

4. To constitute the motor traffic board for the purpose of hearing appeals from the decision of the registrar of motor vehicles. Appeals are at present heard by the state department of public works.

U. S. Army Flyers Encircling Globe

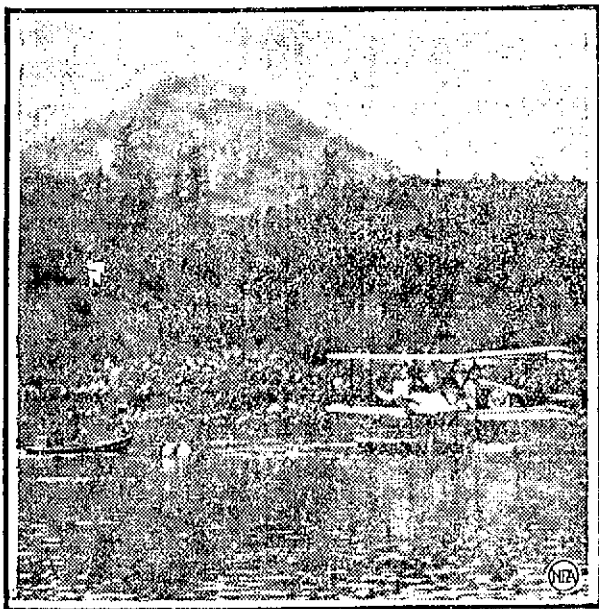

THROUGH BLINDING SNOW AND FOG!

Here is Lieutenant Erik Nelson, engineering officer of the 'round-the-world flight, hopping off Sitka, Alaska. The trip from Sitka to Seward, Alaska, was made through blinding snow storms and dense fog. Near Icy Bay, 300 miles northwest of Sitka, the squadron had to drop to an altitude of only ten feet.

"The city hall quarters, it is fair to assume, are not satisfactory. This is borne out by the fact that the inspectors used the hall before they ever had an office here and appeared to be glad to leave when the time came. There is no spare space at city hall that could not be well utilized for strictly municipal purposes."

Aired Traffic Relief

"There is traffic congestion daily at city hall," he continued, "due to the large number of applicants for licenses who rather than to demonstrate their fitness, Moody street is lined with cars and some days more chaotic than there cannot get within a block of their places of business due to this condition. The congestion about city hall has increased to such an extent that persons having business there have often found it necessary to park their cars a block and two blocks away from the building. "There is another element that should also be taken into consideration. The majority of persons driving cars about the hall at certain hours daily are 'green,' or inexperienced operators, many nervous to a great degree because of their anxiety to qualify for a license. This increases

CORRIGVA, Alaska, May 13. (By the Associated Press.)—With calm weather forecast for today at Attu Island, where three United States army cruisers have been since Thursday after flying from Attu Island, it was expected that the aviators would hasten preparations for the next jump tomorrow of their world-encircling flight, a 573-mile trip to Paramashiro Island, in the Kurile group, Japan.

Meanwhile Major Frederick L. Martin, commander of the expedition and his mechanic, Staff Sgt. Alva L. Harvey, who crashed into a mountain 100 miles northwest of Chukchi, April 20 and who reached Port Moller on the Bering sea coast, May 5, were to leave today aboard either the United States coast guard cutter Albatross or the Pacific-American Fisheries vessel Catherine L., en route to Seattle and Washington, D. C.

From the latter place the men are expected to proceed for India, where Major Martin will again assume charge of the squadron.

COMMUNICATIONS

Editor of The Lowell Sun.

Lowell, Mass.

Dear Sir:

In the Saturday evening issue of The Lowell Sun (May 10, 1924) under the heading of "H. B. Clarke Ask for Day Release," I desire to say that the information given by General Chairman Ulrich of the clerical organization was apparently incorrect in his statement with respect to station employees, baggage men, freight handlers and common laborers on the Boston & Maine system, and I would like at this time to take exceptions to same.

In connection with the above named classes of employees, the brotherhood of railroad station employees has in effect at the present time, with the management of the Boston & Maine railroad, an agreement governing the working conditions of said classes of employees.

The executive officers of the brotherhood of railroad station employees representing Boston & Maine employees met the management of said system for the purpose of discussing our request for the restoring of rates of wages paid to the above named employees, effective May 1, 1924, or in other words a request for the return of the peak rates of 1922.

Inasmuch as the management could not see its way clear to grant said request, this matter was submitted to the United States railroad labor board for its consideration and decision and the case has been assigned tocket No. 2955. Hearings in connection with same are expected to take place before the labor board in Chicago in the very near future.

Mr. H. D. Ulrich is only representative for clerical forces on the Boston & Maine system, so it is evident some error has been made in this statement appearing in Saturday evening's issue of The Sun.

Very truly yours,
EDMOND McNAMARA,
Grand President.

Lawrence Police Officers To Be Arraigned Here

ing or attempting to serve and execute a certain search warrant lawfully issued by U. S. Commissioner Richard B. Walsh.

3. Obstructing, resisting and opposing said federal officers while they were engaged in serving or attempting to serve said search warrant.

The story told by Federal Officer Walter H. Sullivan is that on May 7, after securing a search warrant for the premises 70 South Broadway, Lawrence, with Officers Stonley and Trempley he went to that location and after ordering out all persons found inside, locked the doors and began to conduct a search. After about half an hour, a knock was heard on the front door and upon opening it, the three Lawrence officers specified were seen there. Officer Norton said he had a state search warrant for the premises and asked to be allowed to execute it. The Lawrence policemen were admitted and each group of officers conducted a search. In the meantime, the federal officers had placed the alleged proprietor, Patrick J. Ryan, under arrest. After a trip to the cellar the Lawrence officers reappeared and Norton said he was going to arrest Ryan and take him to the Lawrence police station. Sullivan told him Ryan already had been arrested by the federal officers. Sullivan then alleges that Norton told him that did not make any difference and although he warned him, Norton took Ryan away with him.

Officer Sullivan filed a complaint with Commissioner Walsh against the Lawrence policemen and later took it up with the federal attorney in Boston. After a conference yesterday the federal attorney ordered warrants to issue for the arrest of the three Lawrence officers.

The chances of accidents and adds another angle to a situation which in my viewpoint is far from acceptable. The unused jail could be used to good advantage for permanent quarters by the state registry. The front rooms of the building in Thorndike street could be devoted to offices and the wide expanse of Thorndike street would be a far better place than Moody street for inexperienced drivers to demonstrate their qualifications.

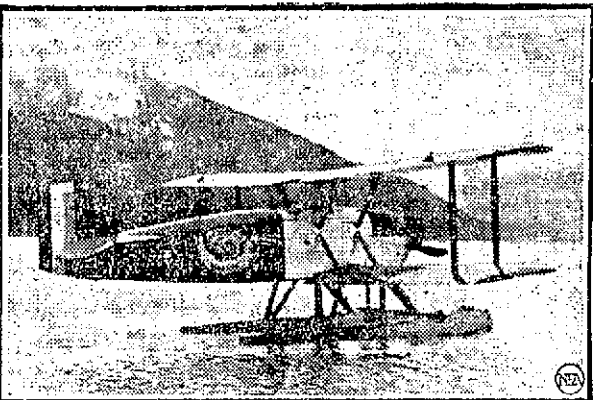

Wouldn't Spoil Sale Chances

"Surely occupancy by the state registry would not affect the chances of sale of jail," Mr. Corbett continued. "I feel quite sure that all other points being acceptable, that the public works department would take over the quarters without a fence. The matter of heat in the winter would have to be worked out but I believe it would be possible to heat the front rooms of the building at not too great an expense. The county has an excellent chance to make a little money in round about the ending of the summer at least. Perhaps, and I cannot state the fact in this case, the state has already made arrangements to occupy the Monaghan building when it is remodelled. This will require the better part of the summer at least. Matter of public convenience and public safety I think the suggestion that the jail be used for the registry headquarters and the wide expanse of Thorndike street and other streets in the vicinity be used as the parking ground for the license applicants, is a very wise suggestion. I look to Commissioner Balfour to confer with his fellow commissioners on the subject and something may come of it."

Lieutenant Leslie P. Arnold is called the "buzzard" by the American "round-the-world" flyers. He went along from Santa Monica, Calif., to Seattle, only to fall ill. He should sickness or accident cause one of the flyers to drop out. And that is exactly what happened. FIRE DRIVES FAMILIES TO THE STREET

Fire in a three-tenement block at 378 Adams street, at about 1 o'clock this morning, drove members of four families residing there to the street in various stages of undress and caused damage to the property estimated at $1200.

The fire was discovered by George Poulkos, owner of the block and occupant of one tenement. He sent in an alarm from box 114 and awakened the other occupants of the building. The fire spread rapidly through partitions in the rear of the house and the occupants rushed to the street without waiting to dress properly. They were aided by neighbors until the fire was extinguished and then returned to their homes.

Upon the arrival of the fire apparatus, flames were visible in the partition in the rear of the building on all three floors and were breaking through the roof. Several hose lines were brought into action quickly and within an hour the blaze was extinguished. The cellar was sounded shortly before 2 o'clock.

HENLE'S COLUMN

NEW YORK, May 12.—By far the most interesting book of this week is "Footlights and Spotlights—Recollections of My Life on the Stage," by Otis Skinner (Doubt-Merrill).

Not alone is the reader given a pen photograph of the life of the famous American actor, but he is given also a well rounded description of the American theatre during its tottering days.

Mr. Skinner thinks that the dramatists of today make more money by writing failures than those of 16 years ago made by their successes. Play-writing of half a century ago was a poorly paid profession. Scarcely anyone could make a living at it. If, now and then, an original play saw the light, it was commonly the work of one who made his living by other literary or newspaper work. Shakespeare, the classical standard print pieces—these were generally the fare the managers brought forth.

Skinner starts his volume by telling how his father gave him a letter of introduction to P. T. Barnum, a friend, and how Barnum in turn gave him the following letter which landed the first job:

"The bearer, O. A. Skinner, Esq., the note read, 'is known to me. His parents whom I have known in Hartford, Conn., for several years, are eminently respectable. Mr. Skinner has an ambition, a talent and a yearning for the stage. I have no doubt that he

EACH compartment in this cabinet tells the inside story of a particular kind of Derry-Made mattress.

Here are several grades of cotton felt mattresses and hair mattresses and a mattress filled with kapok, but whatever mattress best suits your needs you have the certainty of knowing not only what's inside but you are guaranteed, through the Derry-Made mark, that the mattress is built of the best of new materials in a modern clean plant. A mattress that comes to you without the faintest taint of "sweat shop" clinging to it.

Let the youngsters tell you more about these good mattresses.

Derry-Made Mattresses

ALSO DERRY-MADE BOX SPRINGS AND PILLOWS

will prove an important acquisition to any theatrical corps which he may join. P. T. Barnum."

The note was addressed "To Whom It May Concern."

Armed with this, young Skinner went to Philadelphia and obtained a job at $7 a week.

Skinner's book is rich with anecdotes about famous men and women of the stage. It would naturally be for a man who has played 325 parts, who has appeared in 15 plays of Shakespeare, in which he appeared at various times in 33 different parts, and who has produced under his own direction 23 plays.

The most human part of the book tells about his struggles, when he did not have a dime to his name. He gave of himself at that time, "I was an unrecognized piece of jigsaw in the scene of theatrical work." New York looked cold and forbidding, just as it still looks to many who come here annually to try their luck on the stage.

Francine Larrimore in "Nanny Ann," after five weeks in New York, now goes on tour. Why this show didn't last longer in New York is a mystery. It's thoroughly enjoyable and will be liked by people in other cities.

"Bardolox, the Magnificent," is the latest Sabatini romance to find its way from the Houghton Mifflin press. A review of the last Sabatini book will suffice for this one. They're more or less alike, except in this one the author chooses the reign of the French Louis XIII for his setting. His hero is a handsome, reckless fellow, just like all Sabatini heroes.

MAURICE HENLE.

MAKE IT A CLEANER CITY CAMPAIGN

From some source in the community there always is coming the call for a "Clean Up Day" or a "Clean Up Week."

Whoever makes the suggestion will mean well, but he or she really would help the community more by starting the slogan: "Don't call it a 'day' nor a 'week.' Let's have a real campaign."

A "day" is merely pathetic, and a "week" is hardly long enough to make even a fair start.

Make it a "campaign"! And keep it up as long as may be necessary to do a real job; then renew it on the same basis, spring—and fall, to "get ready for the indoor months."

That's the first essential of any successful community effort in such work.

The second essential is to publicly commit to the new order of things, whatever is cleaned up. For example, converting the unsightly dump into a playground, or painting the vacant lot with the green of grass and shrubbery or a thrift garden—but, however it be done, "clothe it in the garb of cleanliness" and thereafter its cleanliness
